

TJOEP

A bright idea: the new tube light on the block.

Here's the story

There's a bright new tube light on the block... and it can be less bright when needed, too. Tjoep is a nod to the fluorescent tube lighting of the past, now reinvented for the modern world. Combining great looks with practical functionality and versatility, the only DNA from its ancestor is the tube shape that inspired the name: Tjoep (a phonetic Dutch interpretation of "tube"). No flickering, harsh, unflattering light but every kind of illumination and mood you could want in your home or workplace.

Tjoep Small and Tjoep Large are flexible lighting solutions for a whole range of requirements. Fix to the wall with the easy-mount brackets or hang from the ceiling above your dining table, work bench, or desk. The brightest setting is perfect for work and hobbies, while the warm, dimmed light spectrum creates a cozy atmosphere. Rotate the end to direct the beam: via the wall or ceiling for indirect mood light, or shining right where you need it. Tjoep is a new interior design icon, chunky and touchable, that's sure to light up your life. Practical, beautiful, and efficient. Brought to you by Fatboy.
